VI- Reading Comprehension and Summary making (120 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

In 1991 Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines surprised the world. On June 15, it erupted after standing silent for 500 years. Mt. Pinatubo is a volcano, but the people living near it never expected it to wake up. The eruption was the second most powerful eruption of the twentieth century. More than a million people had to leave their homes, and between 700 and 900 people were killed. Only a few years later, though, life was back to normal and people were once again building homes and working in the shadow of the volcano.

People might live near a volcano because it is beautiful, or because a large city already exists there. They need to move to this city to find jobs and feed their families. Some people also live near volcanoes because the land near a volcano is good for farming. Volcanoes release ash from the Earth. The ash is good for growing plants. Whatever the reason, most people who live near volcanoes probably do not realise that the volcano is dangerous.

Volcanoes and their surrounding environment are beautiful places to live, work and create. The number of people moving into volcanic hazardous areas is increasing in post-industrial as well as developing countries. Southern Italy is an example. Mt. Vesuvius is located right on the edge of Naples. It has a 2000-year history of eruptions. Yet, there are 3.75 million people living within 30 kilometers of the mountain.

One of the world's most famous volcanoes is Mt. Etna in Sicily. Sicily is an island in the Mediterranean Sea with more than 5 million inhabitants. Many of them are proud to be living near such a famous volcano. After all, countless tourists visit the area hoping to see a "safe" active volcano. Mt. Etna has been very active over recent years, with eruptions nearly every year, but the eruptions are very calm. They are beautiful to watch, and people are rarely hurt. Sicilians call Etna a "good mountain." They think of the volcano as a mother because it has given them such a good life.

Scientists say there are no "good" volcanoes. All volcanoes can be dangerous, but it is unlikely that people will stop moving to areas near volcanoes. So, if there is a mountain in your town, take a good look. Is it just a pile of rock? Or is it a sleeping dragon?
