Hi, my name's Tomo

I'm writing to tell you about my favourite festival - the Japanese New Year. It's a traditional festival and lasts for six days.

My family spends weeks preparing for New Year. They cook special food and put up paper decorations to bring peace and happiness.

On New Year's Eve, we eat special food and stay up late. At midnight, bells outside ring 108 times.

Then we go to bed. For us, it's a good luck to dream of a hawk!

On New Year's Day, we must get up before sunrise. We eat special rice cakes for breakfast and then we eat traditional food and celebrate. Also, my family gives me pocket money in special small envelopes.

The next day we see our family and friends - they give more presents! So, that's my favourite festival. What about you?

Best wishes

Tomo
